USWC Congestion & Vessel Schedule Update 3 March 2015

Dear Valued Customer,

While the ILWU and PMA 5 year tentative agreement is still pending ratification, we continue to see increased cargo flow. As previously advised, we expect complete recovery from the accumulated congestion may take a considerable amount of time, estimated anywhere between 2 to 3 months. As soon as a more definitive forecast is available we will share that information with you. In the attached update, we note there is now a total of 13 G6 vessels, at anchor or adrift compared to the 18 we reported on the 26th. However depending on number of other carriers' vessels awaiting berth availability that number may rise again. Overall number of vessels reported anchored off the west coast had increased yesterday. For your convenience, we will continue to provide these schedule updates until vessel berthing returns to normal. Contents of these schedules are subject to change without notification. While the attached only contains estimated schedule updates for west coast ports, please keep in mind delays to the PA1 on the west coast are causing subsequent delays for that service on the east coast as well.

Until the congestion clears, we expect terminals will continue to place varying restrictions on export receiving and empty container returns. Prior to attempting to return equipment, please consult <http://www.returnlocation.com> for the appropriate return facility. Due to the dynamics of this situation, empty equipment return instructions may change on a daily basis. NYK is taking every additional measure possible to ensure there are accessible facilities.

Import customers are urged to arrange pick up of their cargo as soon as possible which will assist to reduce terminals congestion and speed up of vessel berthing.

As always, NYK Line appreciates your ongoing support and continues to strive to provide quality service to meet your needs.
